Aon boosts captive management expertise

Vic Pannuzzo appointed to lead Asian Pacific captive management operations

Sydney, 16 February, 2011 – Leading risk management and consulting firm Aon Risk Solutions has appointed Vic Pannuzzo to the position of Managing Director of Aon Captive and Insurance Management (Asia Pacific).

Mr Pannuzzo joins Aon to lead the Asian Pacific captive management operations and Aon's risk consulting practice, based in Singapore. He has also been appointed as a board member of Aon Captive and Insurance Management for Asia Pacific.

Mr Pannuzzo has consulted to some of the largest companies in the Asian Pacific region, and has worked with a wide variety of industry sectors including energy, mining, banking, aviation, healthcare, logistics, retail and manufacturing. He also has extensive experience the insurance industry and has worked with some of Asia Pacific's largest organisations.

Prior to joining Aon, Mr Pannuzzo led Marsh's captive management and advisory services based in Singapore.

Paul Johnson, Asia Pacific Regional Managing Director for Aon Global Risk Consulting said: "Aon believes there is a greater role for captives to play in the risk management area, including delivering excellence in insurance and claims advice, reinsurance recovery management, pre and post loss accounting, asset valuation and risk information systems.

"Vic has reviewed, designed and implemented large multinational risk retention and transfer programs, incorporating property, engineering, construction, liability, credit, crime and professional risks. He has also been involved in managing and facilitating resolution of large and complex claims. We believe Vic will be a great asset to the Aon team," concluded Mr Johnson.
